New York, New York

Barclays is an international financial services provider engaged in personal banking, credit card services, corporate and investment banking and wealth management. Prior to the military nominator's deployment, Barclays rewrote its policy for service members to receive differential pay for up to 5 years. They also organized a package drive and sent nearly 300 care packages to unit members for the holidays. While the nominator was deployed, Barclays sent a car to ensure the nominator's wife and young children were able to attend the company's family day event, and his colleagues purchased a basketball hoop and assembled it at his house for his children. As part of their wider community support efforts, Barclays recognized service members at a sold-out NBA game in front of 18,000 fans.
